The Implications of Common Labor Medications on Newborn Behavior Immediately After Birth

Although more than 80% of mothers in the United States intend to breastfeed, many have discontinued by 10 days postpartum. This talk explores research that offers potential insight into why mothers are unable to meet their own breastfeeding goals, and has world wide implications as the use of fentanyl as an epidural anesthetic increases around the world. Dr. Kajsa Brimdyr, Lead Ethnographic Researcher for Healthy Children Project, Inc., explores the implications of common labor medications on newborn behavior immediately after birth using video clips illustrating normal newborn behavior when skin to skin during the first hour after birth, including the 9 Stages, as well as newborn behavior across the spectrum of fentanyl exposure.

1.5 contact hours for RN’s. 1.5L CERPS for IBCLCs, 1.5 contact hours for CLCs.

Module Overview

Expectations

It is expected that each module will take you at least as many hours to complete as the number of contact hours the module awards. For example, if a module provides two contact hours, it should take at least two hours for the module to be fully completed. Answers must be legible.

Participant’s name, address, and other information must be clearly written and complete. This helps us to avoid errors on the certificate or misdelivery of your results.

Participation

The time it takes to complete each module should include thoroughly reading the text and consulting the text to find the answers to the exam questions. For multiple choice questions, participants must carefully choose and circle on the answer sheet the one option that best answers each question. For essay questions, participants may choose to submit answers typewritten on a separate sheet of paper, or answer on the sheets provided in legible handwriting.

Please note: multiple choice questions with more than one answer marked or with no answer marked will be considered incorrect.

Grading and Results

Participants must earn a minimum passing grade of 75% to receive credit. Please submit only the exam answer sheet and module evaluation form for each module. Modules are corrected and results are mailed out in the order in which they are received. When a module exam has been successfully passed, a certificate of completion will be mailed to the address provided. Please be aware that modules have a ten business day turn-around time from the day we receive your answer sheet to the day we mail your results.

If a participant receives a below passing score, a new answer sheet will be sent. There is no cost (other than postage) to re-submit exam answers and we strongly encourage participants to do so. Participants may submit module exams answers as many times as needed to obtain a passing score.
